SOFIA BONATI

Sofia Bonati, born in Buenos Aires into a family of artists, started her own artistic career when she moved to the UK in 2013. Currently residing in Surrey, she is also an established illustrator who has worked with Iberia, Vanity Fair and Mondadori. Her works revolve around the theme of the female portrait. She sets a whimsical and melancholic atmosphere, with captivating gazes and surrealistic elements. Most of her pictures are created with a pencil, watercolour and gouache on paper. She is inspired by the world around her and by artists she has admired over the years. Colors and patterns she comes across in her hometown's nature, with its beautiful landscapes and unique gardens, influence her works.

Her artworks can be found at Society6, Redbubble, Juniqe, PopMotif; and some originals at Sager Braudis Gallery in the US or through direct contact.
